

The Buddha's Law Among the Birds Seminar

Held at Il Convento di Santa Croce, Tucany Italy
November 1982

Taken from "The Buddha's Law Among the Birds" edited and translated from the Tibetan by Edward Conze, published by Bruno Cassirer and Co, Oxford (ISBN 0 851 81020 9)

CONTENTS

1	General intro
2-3	Teaching the dharma in the right language
3	First verse - once upon a time
4	The Bhadrakalpa - auspicious aeon, Saraha, snow lions
6-7	Creatures of good omen Next verse - setting the scene. The Parrot's Speech The cuckoo's silence - is it anger?
8	The Cuckoo's reply
9	The Cuckoo's insight into existence - Impermanence
10	"Foes will remove the hoarded spoils"
11	The modern equivalent of the "stronghold" - insurance policies! Loving thoughts of affection
12	Meeting friends in future lives
13	"Only within the Unconditioned...that real friendship is possible"
13-14	"Sons will side with the enemy"
14	Limiting one's freedom The Conditioned in Impermanent
14-15	What about the wife!?
15-16	The Cuckoo's vows
16-17	Summing up the whole of the Dharma in one word - Impermanence
17	The Tibetan 'preliminary practices' - the six element practice
18-19	Sitting on the right of the left of the Buddha/Great Bird
19	The symbolism of the peacock
20	The Parrot's speech
21	Disentanglement ,The Klesas, the arising of knowledge and vision of things as they really are
22	The Cuckoo speaks again.
23	Releasing the Good and Wholesome thoughts
23	"Venerating them (the three jewels) brings blessings from on high Sharing the qualities of the Bodhisattvas
25	Abandon all attachments wherever they may be
27-29	Giving up everything except
28	Be diligent in performing your tasks
29-31	I had to do it! - what does this mean? - disguising a choice being made
31	Psychological, logical and moral necessities
32	Responsibility for oneself
34	"In touch" with the Jinas
35	Use of the word "precept"
36	Examples of inference in logic
37	The King Vulture's speech
38	Ceaseless Busy-ness Do people know that death is inevitable?
39	Dangers of reflecting on death without the positive basis

The Buddha's Law among the Birds Seminar - Contents

41	The psychological and spiritual effects of giving Can there be lasting merit?
42	Taking advantage of the conditions you are in The Great Crane's speech
42-43	Practising the Dharma on a basis of sila
43	"We are not allowed to dwell in the fourth dhyana all of the time"
44	Insight via reflection in the first dhyana
45	The dhyanas and developing Insight by reflection
46	Rebirth as gods through ethical activity, not necessarily meditation (although meditation seems necessary for prolonged ethical action).
46-47	Skilful and unskilful concentration
48-49	What is laziness?
49	A definition of "indolence"
52	The Golden Goose's speech
52	Desiring emancipation and deserving a state of woe
53	hoping for blessings
54-55	Miraculous blessings
56	Wanting all pleasant ends but using no harsh means
57	Purity of Vision, what is judgement?
58-59	Misuse of the word "prejudice"
60	Singleness of Vision. Thinking of purity in chemical terms.
60-62	"To give and yet be checked by meanness"
62	"To aim at lasting achievements"
63	Being exposed to distractions
64	Avoiding exposure to distractions by living in communities etc.
65	Centres in the city run from communities in the country?
66	Mature (ie in their 50s and 60s) Order Members running Centres.
67	Being involved with the public centre immediately after ordination.
68	Advice to new Order members returning to the city.
69	"To try to understand one's inner mind while still chained to hopes and fears" - The Inner Mind
71-72	"Hopes are traitors, fears are liars" (line from a poem) Why worry?
73	Why are so few women ordained in the WBO?
74	The Raven's speech
75	Being true to your vows
76-77	Ethics - separating humans from animals
77	To be human is to be ethical
78	Examining poetry from an ethical viewpoint
79-80	Examining the word " Dakini "
80	" Samaya " - Tantric vows
81	"Where there's perspiration there will be inspiration"!
82-83	Sacrificial festivals
84-85	"If you transform your state of consciousness, in a sense you transform the world"
86	Luck or karma?
87	Karma is not an ' iron law '
88	The little Wagtail's speech There are many possibilities of downfall
89	The promptings of worldly thought
90	"There's no question of giving full expression to your total negativity"
90-91	Craving for food - Pretas
91-94	Craving for dress
95	Make- up Self orientation
96	Deeply loving oneself and extending beyond that
97	Did the Buddha desire too?

The Buddha's Law among the Birds Seminar - Contents

98	What would the Buddha have done if there were no other beings around him?
99	"The aftermath of evil habits"
100	Making Mars Bars into a positive habit....Procrastination
101	"Your whole being may represent a bad habit"
102	The ruddy sheldrake's speech
103-104	Searching for happiness in Samsara
105	Were people happier in the past?
106	"Without the celestial Dharma one must do without deliverance
107	Realising that actions have consequences
108	You are responsible for your own thoughts
109	Don't come to me with your problems
110	What is personal worth?
111	Without wisdom one must do without virtues
	Why are the stupid depicted as good and the intelligent as wicked?
112	Being intelligent and being intellectual
113	Doing without affection
114-115	Giving each other care and affection
116-117	Making the spiritual community like home
117	Mattresses and beds, hard and soft
118	Tasteless comfort. Looking after each other
119-121	What is 'Pema'?
122	Making small communities too "homely"
123	Friendship between "non-virtuous" people
124-125	The qualities of a good companion
126	What is charisma?
126-128	"Offenses with women"
129	Can married men achieve great things?
130	Before Stream Entry one should be very careful with one's contact with the opposite sex
132	Hen-pecked gurus
133	The Heavenly White Grouse's Speech
134-135	Hard to fathom the totality of causes and effects.
	The limitless mundane actions
136	Fathoming the body
136-137	The deceits of parents
138-139	Examples of deceit by parents
139-141	Religious frauds
142	"Christ, E.2."
143	"Gurus" encouraging dependency
144	Fake gurus in Tibet
145	The religious talk of the shallow
146	Hard to fathom the virtues of the skilful
147	Questioning people's motives
148	Fathoming
149	"Amogha" "Delusion being the biggest obstacle"
	Interpretation of Order members' names
150-151	The pigeon's speech This degenerate iron age
152	The conduct of evil men
	Families in disunion Jealous neighbours
153	Mischievous disputes of great and passionate men
153-154	Many other verses covered in one or two sentences
154	Reasons for despair
155	The despair of parents
156	"intimate friends unconfident in separation"
157	The need for greater confidence in each other in the Order

The Buddha's Law among the Birds Seminar - Contents

158	Faith in somebody's word
159	Not letting people off the hook
160	Thinking the gesture is sufficient without following it up with action
161	Not adding to the despair oneself
162	No such thing as wasted effort
163	The Dove's speech
164	Why do people become pleasure oriented?
165	Distorted ideas of where happiness comes from
166	"You have to work for your sweetie!"
167	Seeking gay diversion - the cinema
168	Making your own entertainment
169	Bhante's views on Television
170	Why can't pleasure be found when you're looking for it? Pleasure is not the same as happiness
171	Pleasurable sensation, intellectual enjoyment, emotional fulfilment and spiritual realisation
172	A constant process of refinement and intensification - the life of the Buddha Mahasunyata and Mahasukha
173	The skullcup filled with blood. The Jackdaw's speech
174	Practise what you preach
175	The sign that religion has to be taught is a sign that degeneration has already set in
176	"Communication" in the FWBO
177-178	"Finery which is not yours"
179-180	The urge for greatness
181	"You won't let me Go for Refuge"
182	The foolish in charge of the skilled
183	Angry brawls, unworthy even of wild bears
184	Kierkegaard's saying about God being a fool
185	Accepting that people can change
186-187	Not acknowledging Buddhist names/change
188	The Owl's speech
189	Feeling that life has been wasted at the time of death
190	"A Priest without morals"
191	"An old lama without judgement"
192	"A chieftain without authority, a general without troops, a king without counsellors"
193	The Privy Council, A leader without followers
194	A teacher without virtues, a disciple without deference"
195	"A friend not to be trusted"
195-196	"a household without common purpose"
197	The cock's speech Disposal of corpses in Tibet
198-199	A Buddhist tradition of cremation
200-201	The four different kinds of "Mara"
202	Mara, death, impermanence, distraction, annoyance - as opportunities
203	The Maras in archetypal form
204	"..you can't escape the consequences."
204-205	The sort of people the text was originally read to The nature of Tibetan people
206-7	The Lark's speech
207-208	Examples in life that "turn sour"
209	Unrealistic expectations
210	"Sourness"
211-212	Why couple who do not get on cannot separate

The Buddha's Law among the Birds Seminar - Contents

213	Friends who are insincere in our defence
214	Texts on the duties of friends - The Sigalovada Sutta
215	The lark seems to be a little hysterical!
216	The Little Red Lagopus' speech
217	A dharma that doesn't transcend the whole of the samsara
218	"There is only certainty in that which leads to the transcendental"
219	Being sure of the facts before making conclusions
220-222	The talk of liars, the gossip of the garrulous, busybodies, the conversation of the stupid and a few other brief sayings dealt with minimally
223	The sense of humour of the Tibetans The Dalai and Panchen Lamas
224	The red-beaked Chinese Thrush's speech Profit from opportunities - the Dharma
225	Giving up one's possessions, being a householder
226-227	Giving food to lower castes within the Hindu caste system More about caste The Pure doctrine
228-229	Tibetan etiquette, types of seats and cups Hierarchy in Tibet (and the FWBO)
230	Profit from the Buddha
231	The Peacock's speech
232	Giving away possessions
233	Buddhists in pursuit of punya
233-234	Lots more brief segments of the speech
235	Constancy in friendship
236	Self-complacency and its effect on judgement
237	The hate-ridden, no prospect for higher opportunities
238	Loss of self-possession
239-240	Mistrust and the loss of logical abilities
241	The final lines in the peacock's speech The Indian Kestrel's speech
242-243	Overlooking the consequences of one's actions
244	Three basic, simple, essential points
245-246	Do any actions not have consequences?
247	The parrot's next speech.
248	The parrot's vow of Going for Refuge
249	The parrot's compassion
249-250	The uniqueness of the Dharma
251-252	Discussing Buddhism with convinced Christians
252-256	The differences between Buddhism and Christianity
257	More differences, eating meat
258	More differences
259-260	Bhante's contact with Christian missionaries and other Christians
261	The parrot's faith
261-262	What is rejected?
263-264	The cuckoo speaks again
265	"Retainers" prior to Henry VII.
266	Impermanence and illusoriness and delusion
267-270	The blue sky of sunyata and visualisation meditation
271-272	The stained glass window as a demonstration of the removal of delusion, a symbol of the conditioned and the unconditioned
273	The goal of visualisation. A system of meditation
274-276	The importance of preliminary practice for visualisation. The Four Foundation Yogas and the Six Element Practice
276-277	Collective pujas and chanting with Tibetans (no collective meditation) but collective meditation with Zen practitioners

The Buddha's Law among the Birds Seminar - Contents

277	What a Tibetan's personal practice consists of
277-278	An FWBO Buddhist university
279	Balancing work and visualisation meditation
280	The cuckoo continues his speech
281-282	Reducing things to their constituents - the Abhidharma. The Yogacharin's Three Levels of Being
283	Relative and illusory reality
284	The cuckoo continues
285	What remains when the root of error is cut
286	Atomic theories in ancient Eastern thought
286-287	Logic in ancient Buddhist scriptures
287-288	Pure thought and pure awareness
288-289	Arousing people's emotions with images, not concepts
289-290	Beauty and truth, rupa and sunyata - the Imagination. Keats and Buddhism
291	The next section - the following year -greeting the cuckoo and his reply
292	The Dharma has to befit peoples' minds
293	Politeness - saying "How are you?"
294	The possible dangers of travelling
295	The speech of the guru of the small birds
296	Why the Indians went to Tibet The cuckoo speaks again
297	'Bad' birds Birds of ill-omen
298	Black cats The Owlet's speech
299	The use of tranquillisers - having one's "heart at ease"
300	The potential perils of being a world leader
301-304	The eight worldly dharmas, Keeping up appearances
305	Bad neighbours Mistaken views of bad pupils The Partridge's speech
306	Old Age, Bad Company
307-308	Those possessed by hate
308-309	Don't be too patient!
310	The rush of the world interfering with meditation
311-312	People assuming you must share their views
313	The disease of cynicism The Hoopoe's speech
314	Things which "burn the mouth"
314-315	Trying to purchase things that haven't involved any suffering
316-317	The Great Train Robbery Tax evasion/avoidance
318-319	Swindlers Taking food meant for the dead
320	Licking honey from a razor blade
321	The conditioned is feeding upon itself
321-322	The cuckoo speaks at length.
323	"The best kind of master was a monk"
324	Disciple servants
325-326	Fighting monks
327	"Love" Consciousness after death
328	Formulating a clear vow The ideal age for attending mixed retreats!
329	Silent days
330-331	The birds speak
331-333	Not storing food
334-335	Back to vows
336-338	The final celebration
339-340	The sunyata mantra
341	Advice when leading study